

FOR BUSINESSES

Add in property to unlock a holistic view on wealth

Nokkel intelligently consolidates data to bring the property and financial services markets closer together, and provide a richer client experience

At Nokkel, we believe that clients make better decisions when they have a complete view on their financial situation.

However, whilst property is typically the largest component of an individual's net worth, it's rarely considered when making important decisions.

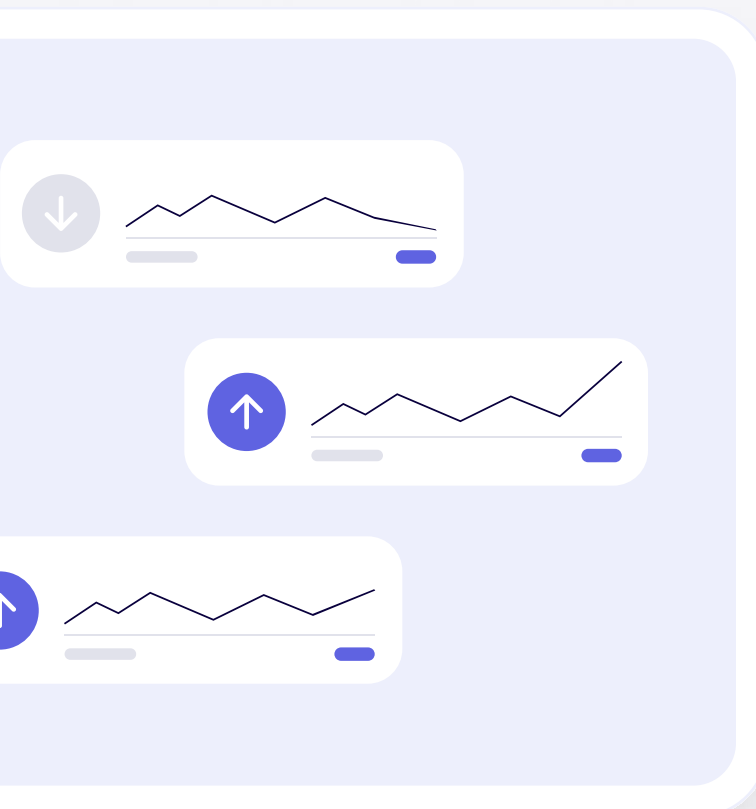

The result? Often property is an afterthought – opportunities are missed when considering financial options, and important financial decisions become suboptimal.

That's a tremendous waste of a property's potential to help grow wealth or upgrade your lifestyle.

WHY NOKKEL

We exist to further integrate property into financial services and connect this with advice and solutions.

With the right tools and information, financial institutions can improve clients' financial decisions and ultimately their wealth and deliver the best solutions – building deeper and more meaningful customer relationships in the process.
